Save Your Relationship And Stop Your Divorce! "Don't Believe That Being Dumped Is The End...Learn How You Can Revive Every Single Relationship Easier Than You Ever Thought Possible" Is your relationship on the rocks? Have you been dumped more times that you care to count? Are you tired of hearing the same lame breakup excuses every other week? Well, you're not alone. Millions of people across the globe are dumped every single day. Almost all of them can't do anything about their failed relationship...but you can. Being dumped sucks. I know. I've been dumped well over two hundred times. But eventually I learnt the secret to preventing my relationship from going sour and I'm here to teach you that secret too. Just give me ten minutes of your time and you'll never have to go through another painful breakup ever again. Here's the facts. Nearly every single relationship that you'll have will end in failure. That's an awful lot of heartache, pain and self-pity. But it doesn't have to be that way. I can show you the secret to turning every single failed chance into a healthy and happy relationship. Let me explain... You see, like I said before, I've been dumped more times than I'd like to admit. I used to be obsessed with getting married, so I tried everything possible to find my wife. I went on dating websites, hired matchmakers and accepted every setup my friends threw my way. Every date, every girl, they always ended the same way. In heartbreak. For a while, at first at least, I thought that these bad dates were just bad luck. I made excuses. I told myself that they just weren't the right girls for me. I told myself that the situation wasn't right. I even told myself that I didn't want to be dating them anyway. But none of these reasons were right. The truth was that I was just wasn't very good at relationships. Even the couple of times when the relationship got serious and I really thought marriage was imminent, almost unexpectedly, I would get dumped. It happened over and over again and I couldn't figure out what was going wrong. Almost all of my friends were in loving, happy relationships and I couldn't believe that dating success could be so hard. I knew I was doing something wrong, I just didn't know what it was... "Make Up, Don't Break Up!" Do you know how thin the line is between making up and breaking up is? Would you believe that every situation you have ever been in your life where you were dumped could have easily not happened. It's true. I learnt this lesson the hard way. After dozens and dozens of breakups, I couldn't take

it anymore. I finally did what any clear-thinking person would have told me not to do. I started calling old girlfriends to find out what happened, why we didn't work out. This isn't an action I would recommend to anyone else. In fact, if I was in the situation again, I wouldn't do it. But I learnt something very, very valuable by making those calls. At first, each girl I called told me the same thing. That we just weren't meant to be together. It hurt to hear, but I accepted it and moved on to the next. Eventually, I refused to accept that as an answer. I started pulling out situations and more intense questions. Only then did the truth come out. And the truth hurt more than anything. What girl after girl told me was that she actually really liked me, but that there was just one thing I did that she couldn't continue dating me because of. To my surprise, each girl had a different reason. I was meticulous in my pursuit and I wrote down each reason. Initially, I figured I would correct these flaws and then I'd be perfect and I'd be happy, but when I saw how many different girls had different reasons for dumping me, I didn't know what to do. So I continued calling my ex's. In this round of calls though, I decided to do something incredibly stupid and painful. I asked them each one question. I asked if when they broke up with me, was there anything I could have done to save the relationship. Almost across the board they answered yes. This is when I knew. No breakup is ever final. There is always a way to rekindle the love and save the relationship. Stop The Breakup. Save Your Hurt. Relearn To Love/ What I learnt at that time was worth every tear I cried and every knife I felt through my heart. I knew that the power to reignite the fire we once had was still within my reach. This lesson taught me how to love and that there was hope for me yet. If you feel like every girlfriend you've ever had broken up with you without seeing the real you, then you need to hear my message. You need to understand that your relationship isn't finished. You can save your breakup and I can show you how. I've helped thousands of people repair a broken bond....and the secret is easier than you think. I said before that every day millions of people breakup, what I didn't tell you then was that most of those breakups don't stick. A huge percentage of those people who breakup get back together. You just know what to do after you get dumped. I know and I am willing to teach you. "Do You Know What Your Mistakes Are? Do You Know You Don't Need To Fix Them?!" I'm going to let you in on a little secret. This is a freebee, just to let you know that I do care about your relationships and I want you to be happy. It might sound simple, it might sound obvious, but this one little secret has helped hundreds of people who came to me for help... Everyone is human and everyone is flawed. What's more important is that everyone knows that. I'd bet my reputation on the fact that your flaws, your mistakes, even your issues aren't the reason for your relationships failing. Your partner knows that you are flawed and is probably willing to overlook it. You just need to know the secret to fixing what you think is permanently broken. I firmly believe that every breakup can be turned around.
