----- I worked part-time with my old digital camera and made over $600+ every single week And so can you! My digital camera was bought all the way back in 2000. It is beaten, battered, and has stood through the test of time. I can probably sell it now for no more than $50 at a local flea market. Yet, it has made me $30,000 every single year. And that's me not trying too hard. If I REALLY wanted to put in the effort, the sky is the limit. This new eBook has just been recently published. The information will absolutely blow you away. I run a Home Based business using my old 'Digital Camera' and computer! My home office is not a high-tech or custom-built state of the art home office. In fact its an Ikea 'office in a cupboard'. Im not the world's tidiest home worker either, but I AM successful. And getting more so every month. Im earning a minimum of around $2,500 a month and last month I earned over $3800 (at the time of writing January 2005). I cant see this decreasing, but most important of all I can NEVER see myself working for anyone else as long as I live! Its a well-known fact that youll never get rich working for someone else. But its very hard to see this until you are self-employed. When you actually get around to making the move and start working for yourself you will ask yourself, as I do, each and every day, why didnt I do this years ago? Well, put that thought on hold for a while until youve read through this publication. You may just find that youre in a better position to fully consider the question. Youre about to find out: How you have a HUGE advantage if youre reading this as an e-book. How a picture not only says a thousand words, but also earns THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS! Why you will never be short of people desperate to give you money. Why people will be smiling and laughing as they happily hand over money to you. Why people will be practically begging you to take photographs for them. Why your digital camera is worth $600 each and every week. How its much more fun to quit your job and use your brain to survive, rather than rely on a steady (poor) wage packet. Why NOT working for an employer can make you rich Why buying an Ikea office in a cupboard can save your relationship (sorry couldnt resist that my other half almost left when I first started out my paperwork was ALL over the house!) Finally, youll discover that you are an intelligent, enthusiastic human being capable of creating your own wealth, despite being down-trodden and having your confidence ripped out of you as an employee (I kid you not you wont realise until youre free). The camera never lies My digital camera cost $199 four years ago. By todays standards its a piece of junk. Id show you a picture of it but its the only one Ive got so I cant take a picture of it (without using a mirror). BUT IT MAKES ME $600+ EVERY SINGLE WEEK WORKING FROM HOME! Im not an expert photographer by any stretch of the imagination Im the bloke who cuts off the heads of relatives (not literally) in holiday snaps. If Im being embarrassingly honest with you, I dont even know how all the (meagre) functions on my camera work! But all I actually NEED to know is how to point it and take a picture of the thing that Im pointing it at! Thats it! Oh and maybe how to use the flash and connect it to a PC. Hardly neuro-surgery eh? If you can do that then you are equipped to make money from your digital camera. In fact you could earn enough in a single week to buy yourself a brand-new camera every week! Although why anyone would want to do that is beyond me. Especially when the alternative is using the money as your new wage - quitting work and spending your working week at home, doing just a few hours work if you want to. Im not kidding it really is like this! You have no idea! But you soon will have. Once you start to work for yourself you will NEVER look back. And for those people out there who started their own businesses and failed dismally, let me say this: Youre NOT going to need any start-up capital except a digital camera and maybe a spare twenty or thirty quid to start things off. Compare that to a normal business where you might need $150,000 to open a shop (and the rest!) or $40,000 to buy a franchise. Let me roam off on a tangent for a while. If youre ever looked at buying a franchise before, far be it from me to put you off, but let me tell you of a story I saw in a newspaper last week. I cant remember if it was national or regional. This particular day the headline was something like Norman is looking for dirty ovens I kid you not! Norman, if youre out there mate, Im sorry but Im not taking the p, youre giving it away! Norman had bought a franchise with a national (honestly! People are buying into this company as we speak), Oven-Cleaning company. This company has regional cleaners who, for a franchise fee of many thousands of dollars, get a van, some cleaning equipment and fluid, a business plan and no doubt (excellent) telephone support and training and they start work doing: The job you dont like to do! They travel the length and breadth of their particular (bought and paid for) exclusive area cleaning dirty ovens because the ovens owner hates doing the job themselves!!! OF COURSE THEY DO! Its a crappy job! Why on Earth would anyone want to buy a franchise (a franchise to me, is when you do nothing more that buy a job) where they clean mucky ovens

all day? I presume its to be self-employed. So Norman has paid thousands of dollars to be a self-employed oven cleaner. Nice one Norm. I might start selling a cat-litter emptying franchise company. Fancy it? Its a great business and the franchise will only cost you $18,000. That includes rubber gloves and as many dustbin liners as you can carry. Get my drift? The whole point of working for yourself is that you can do it your own way. And surely that would mean doing something easy, something you like, and something that pays well. Please believe me when I say there is NO intrinsic value in back-breaking, hard work for little pay. Thats just a lie dreamed up by bosses who want you to work for a pittance. And starting your own business, on your own terms and in your own way, by putting in a little effort, is what this manual is about. Get your camera out, it's time to get started.

===== So there you go. This publication is mind-blowing, and if you ever needed that metaphorical 'kick up the bum' to get you started off working for yourself, dare I suggest that this is IT? As you read above, this is the FIRST time it has been made available to the public. I do not need the money from this guide, that is why I am selling it so cheap. I could easily sell it for 10 or 15 times what I am selling it for here. I just want someone else to have the opportunity to live like I do. I don't live to excess or have a lavish lifestyle, but, I am my own boss!!! I decide when to go to work, I decide what work to do, I decide when lunch is, I don't have to fight through 'rush-hour' traffic everyday to do the same mind-numbing, monotonous job. I live a life where I can honestly say I am happy. That is what I want someone else to be able to say. Simple as that.
