Affiliate marketing is different things to different people, but essentially, affiliate marketing is the act of marketing someone else's products or services for a portion, or commission, of each sale that you make. Some people do affiliate marketing as their full time jobs. That's it. That's all they do they market other people's products or services, collect their commissions, and live their lives as they wish. They do not have to deal with customer service, shipping orders, or anything else. All they do is promote other people's products or services, everyday. Other people use affiliate programs in conjunction with their own products or services, using affiliate programs as front end products, upsells, and back end products. For example, if you had an information product about weight loss, you might want to market exercise equipment, exercise clothing, vitamins, or other items or services that are related to weight loss along with your weight loss information product to increase your revenue.
