Paid Advertising, The Commercial State Of The 'Net & eCommerce As We Know It Are Dramatically Changing In The Year 2007 & Beyond! If you have done any selling on the net, you have surely seen the change in how people are doing business. The search engines have gone to the pay per click model and most ways of getting traffic for free are either gone or extremely hard to conquer. On the flip side, if you have done any shopping online you may have seen things changing in your shopping experience as well. Maybe you've seen less choices for a product than you used to see. The fact is, the Internet is starting to level itself out. You see, there have been tens of thousands of successful web businesses emerging annually for years but now that most of the world is connected, the ability for loads of new people to come online and actually compete is becoming more and more difficult. The businesses coming online now a days that ARE succeeding almost always have a huge advertising budget right out of the gate and this is what it takes to succeed in many situations. That is unless you... Utilize The Power Of Your Own Huge Network Of Affiliates! You might be asking what a network of affiliates is... Let me tell you by explaining how you may have actually participated in one without even knowing it... Many companies allow people to promote their products and if they make a sale, they give them a portion of the profits. This is what's called an "Affiliate Program". The people who do the promoting do so without being paid UNTIL they actually generate a sale. After the merchant has been paid, they receive a check or PayPal payment for their portion of the sale. Merchants are happy to do this because they don't have any advertising cost and they get traffic to their site. When a sale is generated, and only when a sale is generated, do they ever pay anything to the affiliate. And believe it or not, some merchants have over 100,000 affiliates or more that promote their product and services for a portion of the profits. Can you imagine having that many sales people promoting your product without having to pay them a cent until they make you money? Thanks to your tight, revealing manual, I now have over 10,000 active affiliates and I make more sales every day than I used to in a month!
