Depending on the company and also the type of contract, CPA works in many ways. The general method is the same: the traffic sees your ad for your company on a website, then clicks on it, and is redirected to your site. To buy this traffic you can use three ways. One is to pay per click, one is to pay per page visit, and another is to pay only when the traffic is able to make a sale. There is also the provision of paying a flat rate which will include a certain number of ads to be displayed. You can also pay to book certain places for the ads, for example Googles recommended ad spots.
